

Window on the week

Week beginning
Monday 23rd January

In literacy this week we will be learning...

About intonation, tone and volume and how they help when performing our poetry. We will also use space as a stimulus for our own poetry, that we will then perform.

In numeracy this week we will be learning...

About scales so we can accurately represent data about planets. We will also look at units of measurement, used in science.

In science this week we will be ...
Plotting an accurate map of the solar system using our knowledge of scales from our maths.
We will also be drawing imaginary planets for a display in class.

Please remember PE is on Mondays and Wednesdays and suitable clothing, including footwear is required.
Keep working on learning the words of your poems.
